

Shaela Miller and Treeline share new songs and old favourites

Written by Richard Amery

Wednesday, 17 October 2012 15:00 -

---

Shaela Miller and Treeline had a good sized crowd cheering for them at the Slice, Oct. 12.

The long time Lethbridge favourites played a solid set of material, mostly from Treeline's "Prairie Sentimentalist" CD including "Tombstone Grey," one of my favourite Treeline songs. Ryan Dyck and Shaela Miller took turns singing lead— a couple songs apiece.

She sang one of her crowd favourites "Halfway in Love" and sang an excellent duet with Dyck on a brand new song the band had never played live before called "Curtains."

Lead guitarist Taylor Ackerman sang lead on another song, then took over on stand -up bass as Tyler Bird sang lead on another song.

Shaela Miller and Treeline share new songs and old favourites

Written by Richard Amery

Wednesday, 17 October 2012 15:00 -

---

— By Richard Amery, L.A. Beat Editor