

Hedks do it up heavy metal duo style

Written by Richard Amery

Wednesday, 06 July 2016 10:48 - Last Updated Wednesday, 06 July 2016 10:56

I only caught the last couple songs of East Vancouver stoner thrash duo Hedks at the Slice, June 27.

The turnout was terrible and s is the norm for a Monday show let alone on a Monday with so many other events happening.

I missed Foam's opening set, but caught the loud last few songs of Hedks. The female powered guitar and drums duo were reminiscent of darker and more dissonant Pack A.D. but with more metal leanings.

They had a solid backbeat and some menacing detuned riffs.

— By Richard Amery, L.A.Beat Editor